

Eagle Transport thriving with a lean, efficient milk-hauling operation

IN THE late 1980s, brothers Paul and Larry Shirk were looking for better truck driving opportunities. Once farmers in northwestern Missouri, they were driving for a general freight hauler.

Paul recounts that they began to notice that they were hauling a lot of loads over the Indiana East-West Toll Road (I-80/I-90) that runs across northern Indiana. They decided that might be a good area to explore for better driving jobs. It turned out to be an astute business decision.

In short order, they found work with a milk hauler located near Goshen, Indiana. By 1991, they were owner-operators with two tractors and were beginning to build what is now Eagle Transport Group LLC....

To read more of the story, please visit the Bulk Transporter website:

Link to story

Galley of Eagle Transport Photos